Ferdie Sanchez. Ferdie Sanchez's lapidary bonsai trees do a couple of great things for our hobby: (1) showing there are many creative outlets for rockhounding and (2) bringing eastern and western cultural traditions together. When people see his distinctive display cases at a show, PLS gains public interest and respect as an organization that nurtures talent. Ferdie created a display case for PLS that won a top prize at the state/national show in Ventura in June 2017.

Mona Ross. Mona is an outstanding member. She has stepped up and taken a position when needed and volunteers for every club event. As vice president of the club she has recruited and organized interesting monthly speakers for the monthly meeting. She did a great job at show time in the kid's booth. Her tireless efforts during the rock show enables our club to introduce the public to the beauty and value of the lapidary hobby and gem industry. She also helps Janie Duncan with club education booths.

Paolo Sanchez. I'm impressed by Paolo Sanchez 's knowledge and interest in rockhounding. He is dedicated to our club — showing commitment and pride through his passion. When our bulletin editor asks for articles for the monthly bulletin, Paolo steps up, does the research and writes a great article. This year his article on Painite was ranked #1 in California by the CFMS and #2 in North America by the AFMS!

Jennifer Nishimura: Her skill at lapidary earned first place in the Junior Division at the last two CFMS Gem Shows. These accolades helped the PLS to be recognized as one of the premier rock clubs in North America. She speaks at schools and other events and presented a ROTM talk on blue lace agate. At the PLS Show she demonstrates ring making, sells raffle tickets, sets-up and breaks down. Jennifer Nishimura is a great asset to our club and an exceptional candidate to represent PLS as Junior Rockhound of the Year.
